

If the RED or BLACK
rainstorm
warning
is in force...

When schools
are in session —

Remain in school until the end of school hours
and conditions are safe for you to return home.

Parents do not need to collect their children from school immediately.

Education Bureau

If the
RED or BLACK
rainstorm
warning
is in force...

When you have already set out
for school —

Proceed to school unless conditions ahead are unsafe.
School premises will be open
and staffed.

On arriving at school, remain
there until it is safe for you to return home. There will be no normal classes.

[Listen to radio and TV
announcements on schools
and public examinations.]

If the
RED or BLACK
rainstorm
warning
is in force...

Before
leaving home —

Classes will be suspended.
You should stay home.

[Listen to radio and TV
announcements on schools
and public examinations.]

What rainstorm warning signals mean to you

When the AMBER Signal is in force

- Parents, students, school authorities and school-bus drivers should listen to radio or television announcements on weather, road and traffic conditions.
- Candidates for public examinations should attend the examinations as normal, but should listen to radio or watch television in case the weather deteriorates suddenly.

When the RED or BLACK Signal is in force

Before schools start:

- Classes will be suspended. Students should stay home.
- School premises will be appropriately open and staffed to look after those students arriving or leaving, to ensure their safety.
- Internal tests or examinations and outdoor activities will be postponed or cancelled.

When some students have already set out for school:

- Students should normally proceed to the school unless road or traffic conditions ahead are unsafe.
- School-bus drivers should listen to radio broadcasts on the development of the rainstorm and ensure that students will be taken to a safe place, normally the school, unless road or traffic conditions ahead warrant otherwise.
- There will be no normal classes. Students arriving at school should remain there until it is safe for them to return home.

When schools are in session:

- Students should remain in school until the end of school hours and conditions are safe for them to return home. Parents do not need to collect their children from school immediately.

[Listen to radio and TV announcements
on schools and public examinations.]